

Graduate Student Conference Travel Grants

The Fairbank Center for Chinese Studies offers grants to support Harvard University graduate students to travel to professional conferences to present their original research on Chinese studies. The maximum grant is $500, and a limited number of grants can be awarded each year. Please first apply to other sources, such as the GSC Conference Grant (<https://gsc.fas.harvard.edu/services>). This should be an application of last resort.

Please submit the following information:

Date:
Name:
Email:
Degree type:		G-Year:
Department:
Faculty Advisor:
Conference Location:
Conference Dates:
Name of Conference:
Title of paper to be presented:

Please attach:

- Confirmation of your participation at the conference (a copy of the email is fine)
- A brief abstract of the paper (one page or less)
- A detailed budget, showing anticipated expenses, other funding sources, and amount requested

Please submit this application via email to Nick Drake, Program Coordinator, Fairbank Center for Chinese Studies (ndrake@fas.harvard.edu). Faculty advisors may be contacted for approval.